

EducationUSA Canada Spotlights

Emerson College

In Boston, Massachusetts

As one of the few colleges in the world devoted to communication and the arts, Emerson draws enthusiastic, creative minds.

Emerson College believes communication and the arts are fundamental to the growth of society. Our graduate programs are designed to help you develop the professional and research skills necessary for leadership in the communications and arts fields.

Emerson achieves its distinctive educational character by emphasizing the interdisciplinary nature of communication and the arts and exploring how their principles operate in many settings. The accumulation and synthesis of knowledge in communication and the arts, and its applicability to many fields of endeavor, provide the central theme our graduates can use to realize intellectual and creative fulfillment, personal enrichment, and career objectives.

The School of the Arts at Emerson College is a community of artists, professionals, and scholars committed to educating students to bring vision, commitment, sophistication, and courage to their crafts. We believe a strong liberal arts education is fundamental to accomplishing this goal.

The School of Communication sits at the center of the 21st century, preparing leaders to shape commerce, public opinion, health behavior, and communication innovation. Through projects, campaigns, co-curricular activities, and practical demonstrations of effective communication, our talented and passionate students encounter an immersive environment where they learn from one another as well as from acclaimed professors.

Emerson students are doers and learners, even after class is over for the day. Whether it's directing a studio production for The Emerson Channel, rehearsing a routine for the Emerson Dance Company, or DJing at WERS-FM, Emerson students are constantly creating and collaborating. With more than 80 student organizations plus the numerous opportunities here in Boston, there really is something for everyone.

The “campus on the Common” borders both Chinatown and the Theatre District, and it is just a short walk away from the Massachusetts State House. With the Boston Common at the front door and the Financial District's high-rise buildings curtaining the skyline, Emerson's location represents a dichotomy of old and new. Aside from the historical sights, cultural venues, and exciting nightlife, Boston represents America's greatest college town, with more than 250,000 undergraduate and graduate students soaking its streets.

An old world town populated with new-world scholars and thinkers, Boston is the perfect place to further your education.

